The members realize the importance of an occasional social affair, whereby the many members who do not attend regularly may be met and kept in touch with. Also, the club has been careful to preserve the original status which required from its members only their cooperation for the public good. In line with this idea, the meeting will be open to anyone who has an idea to advance for public welfare. Those wishing to communicate with the club address Mrs. Nellie McMinn, Lowell P. O.

on present and the little girls each wore costumes of various clever designs, which represented the styles from the period of grandmothers day, down to the latest and most fashionable creations of the present time. The little girls brought their needlework and with their dolls beside them formed a very pretty little group on the lawn, where a dinner was served in picnic fashion, and the menu consisted of beans, chili con carne, bread and butter, and pink and white cake, after this there was music and Miss Dorothy and Miss Muriel entertained their friends with some fancy dances in their usual charming manner. The little guests present at the enjoyable affair included Alma and Ina Bean, Josephine Shaw, Louvenia Vanderwalker, Honolis Dickson, Dorothy Cooper, Maribel O'Neill, Edna Chalm and Dorothy Griffith.

Miss Helen Lyons was the honoree at a very pretty affair given at the home of Mrs. Hugh McKay on Jones Hill, Thursday evening. A splendid five course dinner was served, and covers were laid for twenty-eight. Pink carnations, tastefully arranged with ferns, formed a most attractive color scheme, and place cards of a very dainty design were also noticed. Music, dancing and progressive whist were the diversions of the evening. Miss Lyons, who has been spending the summer with her aunt, Mrs. H. F. Lyons, will leave in the near future for Corvallis, Ore., where she is attending college. She has made numerous friends during her stay here, who hope she will return again soon.

Director Harding of Brooklyn Rapid Transit says: "There is no basis whatever for statement that Brooklyn Rapid Transit directors are considering a reduction of dividend. Earnings justify present 6 percent and there is nothing to indicate any falling off."

Epidemics

It is a common occurrence for an epidemic of some kind to break out and as difficult as it is common to detect the cause.

For the past several days there has been an old fashioned epidemic of something like cholera morbus among Bisbee people. Some attributed it to the millions of bugs that invaded town two weeks ago. The Mayor thinks it due to the city water and is going to investigate. Whatever the cause the attack was sudden. Every person attacked who took a liberal dose of Vitolox, recovered just as suddenly. Don't let this pay day pass without placing a bottle of this valuable medicine on the kitchen shelf.

PUNISH ITALY'S FRIENDS

LONDON, Aug. 21.—When the Italian arms were removed from the Italian embassy in Brussels, the people of Brussels knew immediately that Italy was at war with Austria and celebrated the event by wearing small Italian flags in their buttonholes. But they did not wear them long, as the German authorities arrested the flag vendors and published an order against this method of showing sympathy. Whereupon all the Belgians went about with small pieces of macaroni tied to their lapels, according to a story authenticated by a traveler recently in Brussels.

Orders had been published that there should be no display of national colors of either Belgium or her allies. When the Belgian national holiday came around black flags were hung out of every Belgian home. A number of offenders were accordingly arrested. They pleaded that the order said "colors" and black was no color but the absence of color. Therefore they had not violated the order.

HAVE YOU A CHILD?

Many women long for children, but because of some curable physical derangement are deprived of this greatest of all happiness.

The women whose names follow were restored to normal health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Write and ask them about it.

NIGHT BECOMES DAY

PARIS, Aug. 21.—Algerian riflemen and other soldiers of the Mohammedan faith from other parts of Africa, serving in the French army, now drink their coffee at sunset, take their lunch thirty minutes later and have their dinner at midnight. This turning of night into day is the consequence of the Ramadan, the annual fast of the Mussulman, extending over a period of a month from July 18 to August 12, during which he abstains from food and drink every day between dawn and sunset.

Following the rule established last year, to respect the religious feasts of all soldiers in the French army and facilitate their observance, the minister of war ordered that the commissary department furnish supplies to the Mohammedan soldiers in accordance with their traditions.

The Season's Popular Styles
By May Manton

THE dancing frock is sure to be one of the needs of the autumn season. This model is very charming, essentially girl-like and simple, really perfect for college and school functions. The skirt is in three flounces arranged over a plain foundation. The bodice shows the pretty lapped or surplice effect that is a pronounced favorite of the season. Here, the dress is made of white tulle with white net and with white chiffon roses for trimming, the only bit of color being found in the sash, but of course it could be copied in any preferred color and with the edges of the flounces cut in points and bound in places of being trimmed.

THE Russian suit is always a favorite one for the small boy. It is becoming boy-like and seems to combine all the necessary qualifications. This model is one of the prettiest. It can be made just as it is here, or with the front of the blouse turned back to form a revers. For very dressy occasions, the suit of all white linen with the revers and collar embroidered, would be exceedingly handsome and exceedingly fashionable; for every-day use, the blouse of white galatea with trousers and trimming of blue as illustrated, makes a desirable combination.

QUAINT effects make such an interesting and notable feature of the autumn season that this gown possesses a special attraction. The plain bodice is very pretty and very attractive and the ruffled skirt gives all the bouffant effect required by the latest decree. In the illustration, the skirt is made of all net and the bodice is of flowered tulle with the neck used for the little neck frill or tucker. The combination of material is smart as well as the cut and style, but this is a season of many materials and many opportunities and the clever woman will be able to think of numberless variations. Lace flounces would be very charming with this bodice or with one of plain color, or, one could think of a skirt of plain tulle with the bodice of flowered, or perhaps with the whole gown of plain silk with lace or net for the tucker and forming the sleeve frills beneath the circular ruffles.

PRACTICAL gowns are as a matter of course the ones in greatest demand. Here is a very pretty and charming model for all afternoon occasions. It is smart in the extreme, yet simple, easy to make and well adapted to all fashionable materials.

In the center, a "five velours" is combined with luxurious satin. The effect is exceedingly beautiful and the gown dressy enough for any day-time function. It could of course be copied in simpler materials to give a simpler effect. Wool velours which is to be much worn would be pretty made just as shown here combined with the satin, or, later, tulle could be combined with satin or with soft finished velvet. The dresses and the vest are sewed to the bodies and can be either of the same or of contrasting material. A different effect can be obtained by making the sleeves, bodice and the skirt all of one material with the exception only of a different one, as here, brown tulle with ivory satin for the chemise, or, for the simpler look, with white or cream in a dark blue or navy colored satin for the chemise, for a softer color with blue makes one of the newest and smartest combinations.

NO back suits the tiny tot better than this simple one. It is cut in kimono style with the sleeves and main portions in one; therefore, it is the easiest thing in the world to make. It can be trimmed as it is here with ribbon passed through big button holes or it can be made perfectly plain or be embroidered. Fine washable materials are the ones most in use for the very tiny tot and in the picture, sheer white batiste is trimmed with lace. The same material with scalloped edges and with embroidery on the front and on the edge of the skirt would give a very different effect.

LATEST FADS AND FANCIES OF FASHION

MISS SUMMER is not often a season of surprises in matters sartorial, but this year we need to be developing new fancies and new effects at most week by week, that is to say, we are seeing developments and interesting combinations, untried materials and the like, without any really radical changes. Mention has already been made of the use of the genuine awning cloth for evening coats. It is growing in favor and it has an unquestioned smartness of its own. On the Rink of a noted town was seen recently a costume consisting of a skirt of blue and white awning cloth, laid in wide plaits, with over it a blazer coat of blue tulle and what more apparently incongruous materials could be put together yet the effects was good, the costume was a handsome and attractive one and the whole result smart as well as interesting. Every kind of material is being used for the blazer or sports coat—crêpe de chine, silk crêpe or the heavier sort, the faille already mentioned and the soft glove silks and satins and also a great many serge and gabardines and really prosaic wool stuffs.
